

Party Loyalty, Party Schmoyalty— Israel Comes First

By Janet McMahon

After just one term in the Senate, Mark Kirk (R-IL) is number four among Senate recipients of career pro-Israel PAC contributions—thanks in large part to his haul as a member of the House of Representatives from 2001 to 2010. If one adds the $12,100 he received in 2014, however—when he wasn't even running for re-election to his Senate seat—Kirk is a solid number two among current candidates. As he did in the House, he has more than proven his Israel bona fides, as this magazine has regularly recounted.

Kirk's Democratic opponent in the Nov. 8 election is Rep. Tammy Duckworth, who has represented the state's 8th congressional district since 2013.

She first ran for Congress, however, in 2006, when she was hand-picked by Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel, then head of the Democratic National Campaign Committee, to run as the Democratic candidate to succeed Rep. Henry Hyde. As Andrew Cockburn reported at the time (see March 2006 Washington Report, p. 30), when opposition to the Iraq war was high:

In the last election progressive candidate Christine Cegalis actually got 44.2 percent of the vote against the 16-term Hyde, despite being outspent $700,000 to $160,000 in a conservative district with no elected Democrats at all.

Following this commendable showing, Cegalis figured that with Hyde retiring and the Republicans melting down, she stood a better-than-even chance of garnering the seat in 2006.

However it seems that in Emanuel's opinion, Cegalis stinks....she is calling for troop withdrawal from Iraq. So Emanuel set out to recruit a more suitable candidate....Now he is pinning his hopes on a double amputee woman Iraq veteran, Tammy Duckworth.

Duckworth—and the Democrats—lost to Peter Roskam, who has represented the district for the past decade. So much for putting the interests of your party first.

*Back in Kirk's former 10th congressional district, two Jewish candidates competed for the 2016 Democratic nomination: Nancy Rotering and Brad Schneider. Both support gun control, Hillary Clinton for president, and women's reproductive rights, according to the Forward. But Schneider opposed the Iran deal and Rotering supported it. Interestingly, several Illinois political figures who initially had backed Schneider switched their support to Rotering as a result, including Judge Abner Mikva, who used to represent the district, former Sen. Adlai Stevenson III and neighboring Rep. Jan Schakowsky. Illinois Sen. Dick Durbin also endorsed Rotering.*

Many powerful out-of-staters—including House Minority Leader

Janet McMahon is managing editor of the Washington Report on Middle East Affairs.

Nancy Pelosi (D-CA) and Minority Whip Steny Hoyer—along with pro-Israel PACs, threw their support to Schneider, however, who won the March 15 primary with 54 percent of the vote to Roter-ing’s 46 percent. Pro-Israel PACs contributed only to Schneider.

Once again, party loyalty—or lack of same—did not seem to concern Democratic party leaders. As the Forward reported, Schneider “contributed to the House campaigns of Republican Mark Kirk” and, “[t]hrough he wasn’t in office when Netanyahu spoke to Congress in March 2015...found his way to the House floor for the speech, which was orchestrated—to protest from Democrats—by the House’s GOP leadership in violation of long-standing protocol.”

Dilemma in Wisconsin

Former Sen. Russ Feingold is seeking to reclaim his seat from Republican Sen. Ron Johnson, the Tea Party candidate who defeated him in 2010.

Considered a maverick, Feingold opposed NAFTA and other free trade agreements, and was the only senator to vote against the PATRIOT Act. Nevertheless, his career total of $215,938 puts him, like Kirk, among the the top 10 Senate recipients of career pro-Israel PAC contributions.

But the pro-Israel lobby tends to favor incumbents, and as of Dec. 31, 2015 its PACs had given Johnson $6,000 to Fein-gold’s $2,500. Stay tuned.

Inquiring Minds Want to Know

As of Dec. 31 of last year, pro-Israel PACs had given Rep. Tulsi Gabbard (D-HI) $15,000, for a career total of $16,500. This past February, however, she resigned her post as vice chair of the Democratic National Committee to endorse Bernie Sanders for president. We suspect she won’t be getting much more from pro-Israel PACs, since the American Jewish estab-lishment favors Hillary Rodham Clinton over Sanders, a fellow Jew who has uttered the fatal words “an even-handed ap-proach” to the Israel-Palestine conflict. In his quarter-century in Congress, the Vermont Democratic Socialist has received a grand total of $4,000 in pro-Israel PAC contributions, com-pared to Clinton’s $69,618 for eight years in the Senate.

Rep. Henry Waxman (D-CA) retired from Congress at the end of 2014. Nevertheless, his campaign committee donated $26,215 to the non-candidate in 2015—behind only incumbent Floridians Ted Deutch (D) and Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R). The committee disbursed a total of $78,785 to, among other “sub-vendors,” the Jewish Family Service, the MS Society and four synagogues. It also contributed to the campaigns of Brad Schneider, Rep. Kathy Castor (D-FL), Sen. Patty Murray (D-WA) and Senate candidate Rep. Ted Strickland (D-OH). Even after all that largess, the Congressman Waxman Campaign Committee still had a balance of $380,493 at the close of 2015! □
